Sportsmen, Read This.

The discussion that is being carried on among the different field journals and magas over the superiority of shells and sho gun ammunition is of vital interest to all nners and sportsmen. Many favor one make and many another, but a preponderance of opinion is decidedly in favor of the Peters Cartridge company in Cincinnati. Their nev Victor cartridge has proven a sensation, giv-ing the highest degree of satisfaction everywhere used, and it is very popular all over the west. T. R. BULGER DIDN'T KILL HIMSELF. Investigation of a Peculiar Death in Hitchcock County, Nebraska.

The death of John M. Bulger, which oc curred in Hitchcock county February 3, was at that time reported to have been caused by suicide while insane as the result of losing money that he had deposited in the broken bank at Trenton, Neb. But when the body of the dead man was sent to his old home in Canton, O., his friends refused to believe the suicide story and an investigation was made by four prominent physicians of that city. These doctors have now made affidavit going to show that the wounds were not self-inflicted. In their affidavit the phy

"Upon examination of the body of John M. Bulger we found contused wounds of the face and neck that had all evidence of having been made some time before death. The bullet wound over the heart and back had all appearance of having been made with a small bullet, No. 22 or 32. Judging from the nature of the wounds, their position, relation, etc., we believe that John M. Bulger was irdered and that said wounds were not in-

SCOTT'S RULING NO SURPRISE. Commissioners Knew All About the

Rules of Evidence. In speaking about the instructions given to County Attorney Baldridge by Judge Scott, Commissioner Coburn yesterday said that there was nothing in them that was not board. "It is a pretty well established fact." he said, "that the board has no power to compel witnesses to attend meetings and testify except when sitting as a license board. We knew that all along. And the other fact that the members have no right to ask for estimony given in the grand fury room was although at first the majority of the board thought otherwise. After can-vassing the matter, however, the board came to the opposite conclusion. I do not think that thes things will affect the investigadecided whether the investigation will be continued.

Contrary to the opinion held by the ma-jority of the public the board has not started the investigation during the two executive vited to be present simply for the purpose of advising the board. The discussion was en-tirely general, and was concerning the plan r method of the proposed investigation. All that has been done about the investigation itself was public and consisted of the two esolutions introduced by Commissioners Smith nd Strickler." Commissioner Hartman said that the board was aware of the fact that it had not the power to compel the attendance of witnesses except as a license board and that the grand urors had not the right to disclose testim of witnesses who were in the jury room, all though it was at first thought it had. "W will probably decide next Monday night what will be done," he said. "If an investigation is to be held it will be public, for an ac-cused police officer will be given the right of a public hearing, although in the past we have dismissed men without giving reasons. The board has that power.

Arrested on Another Charge.

John Collins was yesterday acquitted of the charge of having obtained 85 cents worth of goods from Druggist Lanyon under false pretenses. He entered Lanyon's drug store on the night of March 3 and purchased 85 cents worth of quinine and whisky. In payment he presented a check for the amount and signed it I. I. Jackson, claiming to be the Jackson who owned a livery stable Twenty-eighth and Harney streets. Pr cutor Shoemaker failed to prove that Collins' name was not Jackson and did not have an interest in the livery stable. AMONG THE ARMY MEN.

Court-Martial Convened at Fort Omaha-

The quarterly court-martial convened a Fort Omaha yesterday. There was nothing before the court, however, of any public interest, outside of the ordinary cases of enlisted men. From other departments it is observed that large numbers of men are being dishonorably discharged by courtsmartial for offenses which formerly meant service in the military prisons. This is construed by army people that officers sitting on courts-martial will not administer pun-ishment by sentencing men to the post guardhouses and fill up these places with undesirable characters. It is the result of the policy adopted by the War departmentthe abandonment of the military prison. Many of the officers of this department think that in course of time this indiscriminate discharge from the service will induce breaches of discipline for the sole purpose of securing a release from the army and will have a most demoralizing influence or

IT IS NOT BETALIATION. Receiver Hierbower on the Bilis of the Water Works Company. The action of the American Water Works company in presenting the back bills for water consumed in the city hall and in the library building is causing a good deal of comment among city officials and others.

This is regarded by some as the beginning of a policy of retaliation for the refusal of the council to allow the bills of the water works company for hydrant rental, on the ground of insufficient fire protection. This idea is emphatically denied by Receiver but in this case at fearful cost. Bierbower and Superintendent Hunt of the water company.

Mr. Bierbower said yesterday that there was no animus in his action beyond the interpretation of the duty of the receivers in their relations to the business that had been entrusted to their hands by the courts. Long before the present suit of the com pany against the city was begun, they had considered whether they could consistently furnish free water to these buildings, which they were not bound to do by the contract. The question had been submitted to their attorney, and he had decided that there could be no question but that the city was bound to pay these bills. At that time he had instructed his subordinates to see how much water was used in the city hall, and if the amount was not excessive, he had no intention of presenting any bill. But later meanor for any person, but to whom it has on it was represented that a vast amount been awarded, to wear the medal of honor, of this free water was being wasted, and they had concluded to send in the bills which was done.

In this connection it cropped out that Specht some time last year, but that the Sixth ward statesman had for some reaso neglected to turn it over to the council. In regard to the reported curtaliment of the improvements which had been contemplated during the coming senson, Mr. Bierbower said that the company would undoubtedly be compelled to abandon some of the work that compelled to abandon some of the work that had been proposed. This was not a measure of retaliation against the city, however, but a plain business proposition. The refusal of the city to pay its bills for the past year had deprived the company of $85,000, which it had expected to be able to devote to these improvements. provements. For this reason he had can celled the order that had been given for the material for the new twenty-four inch main to connect the Florence main with the Wal-nut Hill reservoir. The construction of this main represented an outlay of nearly $60. 000, and it was not to be thought of under the present conditions. With regard to the down town improve-ments, Mr. Bierbower said that such of them as were considered necessary would be carried out. A new twelve-inch main would be put in on Sherman avenue next month to replace the present four-inch pipe. In the business district, such mains as were too small to give an adequate supply would be reinforced. but the reinforcement as recommended by the recent investigating committee would not be carried out. Engineers had decided that many of them were wholly unnecessary, as in the case of the Douglas street main, which was considered amply sufficient for all present purposes.

The bills for the water that has been used in the city hall since its occupation were presented to the council at the meeting of January 29 and referred to the finance con mittee, in whose hands they still remain. The document consists of four separate bills as follows: From June 4, 1892 to December 17, 1892, $115.89; from December 17, 1892 to December 16, 1893, $304.37; from December 16, 1893 to December 17, 1894, $1,138.92; from December 17, 1894 to January 17, 1895, $94.04. Total, $1,653.39.

Chairman Taylor of the finance committee said that the members of the committee have as yet been unable to reach these bills on account of the large amount of work which they have had on hand, but that they will receive attention at an early date. It had always been his understanding that the city was not supposed to pay for its water, and he would make a thorough investigation before he made any recommendation. If the water company proposed to retaliate on the city, the council would undoubtedly have something to say. There was no question but that the council had authority to regulate the rates to be charged by the company, and so far as the matter of improving the fire service was concerned, there could be but little doubt that in the light of the findings of the investi-gating committee the city would find means to see that the interests of the city were pro

No Fault Found with His Order to the Troops to Fire on the Citizens. COLUMBUS, March 9.-The Ohio National Guard Military commission appointed by Governor McKinley to inquire into the shooting of certain citizens at Washington Court House by Ohio troops under command of Colonel Alonzo B. Colt while defending a negro pris oner from being lynched, sustained Coit Governor McKinley has endorsed the report. The governor, in his endorsement of the finding of the court of inquiry, says: "The crime which was the pretext for the unlawful assemblage and the riotous conduct which followed was revolting in the extreme, and merited, as it received, the condemnation of law. The crime, horrible as it was, was, however, no justification for the acts of lawlessness and violence which were pernitted by those who, in passion, to add to one crime still another, and whose plain duty as citizens was to preserve, no to break the peace of the country." The governor then outlines the affair a Washington Court House October 17. prisoner was being taken from the jail t the court room to enter a plea of guilty when the mob interfered. Having reached the court room with the prisoner, and he having been sentenced to twenty years, the full extent of the law, the officers of the county and the militia remained there, sieged by the mob, until the shooting followed, on account of an attempt of the mob to break into the building, "The unlawful assemblage," says the governor, "neither heeded the warnings of the officers nor of the citizens, which were repeatedly given, "Under this grave provocation," continues the governor, "Colonel Coit and his command behaved with rare prudence and forbear-

It is further stated by the governor that the troops were present at the request of the sheriff, and that it was clearly the duty of the sheriff and troops to protect the pris "The law," says the governor, "was upheld, as I believe it always will be in Ohio,

"Lynching," says the governor, "cannot be tolerated in Ohio. The law of the state must be supreme over all, and the agents of the law, acting within the law, must be sustained." The endorsement closed with a strong testimonial to the prudence and judgment of Colonel Coit and his men.

SLAPPED THE COUNT'S FACE. Anna Gould's Husband Was Once Chastised

for Insulting a Woman. CHICAGO, March 9 .- It was the hand of Trilby, the "1492" Trilby, now at the Columbia theater in this city, that smote the face of Count de Castellane and caused his noble blood to surge all over his outraged countenance. Trilby says she slapped him, and slapped him good and hard. Trilby, to be exact, is Miss Gertrude Corey, and she pose as Trilby in a living picture in "1492." "It was not on account of myself, but of my chum, Ninette Burduins, that I struck him,' said Miss Corey. "She was always a delicate girl, and somehow I fell into the habit of lefending her at all times.

Miss Corey here stopped to explain that her friend, Miss Burduins, is now at her home in Albany, where she is said to be dying of consumption. Continuing she said: "He made an offensive remark to her, and it occurred in my rooms. I asked him to repeat, saying I thought I did not quite understand him. He repeated it, and I, well, I have a quick temper," she said, as if in extenuation, "and quick as a flash I slapped him on his left cheek. His face flushed scarlet, and he said, shutting his teeth very tight: 'If you were a man I would kill you.' "'Play I am a man if you like,' I said, but so long as you admit that I am not a mar you must take for granted that I am a lady. These are my rooms. If the people here do not suit you, there is the door.' What the count said was really not so bad, but I really think I took offense because he was a count. think I took offense because he was a count. You know we do not care for that sort of thing here. We may be Hohemians, we don't claim to be anything, but we are Americans and we are independent. After I struck him," she continued, coming back to her subject, "he began locking for his hat, and as he went out of the door Ninette threw after him a big bunch of pink and white roses, three dozen of them, which he had sent up in the afternoon. We had had a little dinner party as we often do after the theater. But party, as we often do after the theater. But the dinner was over, and the trouble was because the count thought he ought to have all the attention, I suppose because he was a count, and my friend did not care for him, and turned her back to talk to one of the other gentlemen. After it occurred, the men who were with him, an attorney and two Englishmen, stayed and tried to chat a little with us, as if nothing had happened. Ther they left," she concluded. COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Routine Business Transacted at the Meeting Yesterday. The meeting of the county commissioners yesterday afternoon was for the most par devoted to routine business. A petition was received from the associates of the Mission of Our Merciful Savior, requesting that a matron be appointed at the county jail. The secretary was instructed to inform them that the sheriff already had appointed such matron. A contract for the greater part of the printing and stationery supplies for the county during the coming year was awarded to the Klopp & Bartlett company, upon rec-ommendation of the committee on finance. company's bond for $2,000 was accepted and placed on file. The register of deeds requested that for the benefit of the public he be furnished by the clerk of the district court with certifi-cates of all discharges of mortgages under foreclosures. He claimed that he was en-titled to these certificates under the law, but heretofore had not received them. Referred judiciary committee. Upon motion of Jenkins the telephone a the county coal yard was ordered discontinued at the end of the present month. A long protest was received from residents of West Omaha precinct against the renewal of Balthas Jetter's license to sell liquor in Batavia park. The signers claim that Jetter is not a resident of Batavia park, and that during the past year other parties have been running the saloon under his name, and that in addition a dancing hall is maintained in connection with the and that liquor is sold at all hours of the night and on Sunday.

Upon motion of Stenberg adjournment was taken to Friday, March 15, at 10 a.m., when Jetter and the protesting residents will be notified to be present for a hearing. Two Iowa Burglars Sentenced. > Wife Came and Spotted His Scheme. TOLEDO, O., March 9 .- The town of Clyde,

O., is all excitement over the arrest of Eugene Farnham, a New York artist, who has been cutting quite a swell there during the past year. Farnham represented himself as a single man and was received into society, His wife appeared on the scene Wednesday and his arrest followed. Farnham left Clyde a few weeks ago, and his whereabouts was not known until February 24, when Andrew Eiry, an aged and wealthy resident of Seneca county, died suddenly. Farnham was on very intimate terms with the only daughter, and since the old man's death has continued to live there on the farm with her.
